- A. Security is applied to the Entity dimension but can differ for users for accounts "sales" and "expenses".
- B. Multiple currencies are required.
- C. You have decided to implement the Capital Expense planning module in addition to PSL budgeting.
- D. Sales are planned by product and channel, and salary expenses are planned by position.
- E. Data cannot be shared across the Organization dimension.
- F. Currency rates must be kept in a separate database.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

C: When you define an entity member, you assign a plan type for which it is valid. If you do not assign a plan type to a member, that member's children do not have access to that plan type. If you move a member, and the new parent of that member is valid for different plan types, then the member remains valid only for the plan types it has in common with the new parent.

Your organization may require that different entity members prepare different plans. For example, in your organization all entity members may submit expense plans, but entity members that are cost centers do not submit revenue plans. When you define entity members you specify the plan types for which they are valid. Because data forms are associated with plan types, this allows you to control which entity members can enter data for each plan type.

E: You would need two plan type. To add a Capital Expense plan type to an existing application see Note below.

Note: To add the Capital Asset Planning plan type to a Planning application:

- 1 In Performance Management Architect, select Navigate, then Administer, then Application Library.
- 2 In the Application Library, right-click the application to which you want to add the Capital Asset Planning plan type, select Initialize, then select Capital Asset or Workforce and Capital Asset if the application will use both plan types.
- 3 To confirm the initialization, click Yes.

NEW QUESTION: 4

You are recommending RAID 6 to a customer for a non-database HDT pool.

What are two reasons for this recommendation? (Choose two.)

- A. When capacity is pooled; the whole pool is affected when one parity group fails.
- B. RAID 6 minimizes exposure to double disk failure.
- C. RAID 6 provides the optimum overall performance of all RAID types.
- D. RAID 6 provides the most efficient use of system processor resources.

Answer: B,D
